to Kent County, Land of Pleasant Living

Situated on a scenic peninsula of Maryland's Upper Eastern Shore, where the Chester and Sassafras rivers meander into the Chesapeake Bay, Kent County retains its serene beauty despite the passage of time. This waterfront destination is just a short two hours from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington DC, Annapolis and Northern Virginia. Serene and quiet, surrounded by the natural beauty of sweeping fields and stunning water views, Kent County is a perfect getaway where you can leave the stress of daily life behind. The peaceful vistas of rolling hills, farms, vineyards and open space remind us of a time past when life was simpler.

Despite its rural nature, or perhaps because of it, Kent County provides plenty of things to do, whether your interests incline toward the athletic or artistic, the land or water. Walk the tree-lined brick sidewalks of one of the oldest Mid-Atlantic ports of entry, or hike amid towering trees and along wide-open beaches at one of the county's nature preserves. Hang out at a local watering hole so close to the Bay that your feet will be wet. Take in dynamic art exhibits, watch artists at work, or participate in an artist's workshop. Connect with nature, paddling a kayak, sailing a chartered yacht, or lounging on a Bay-front beach.

Craving crab cakes? That's just a start to the array of scrumptious dishes to tempt you at our local restaurants. Among other tasty treats, you'll find locally caught striped bass (known in these parts as rockfish), succulent oysters, delicious Maryland crab soup, hot steamed crabs, locally raised beef and our superlative Silver Queen sweet corn. And don't miss the tastings of our locally produced wines and spirits.

Spend your nights in Kent County resting your head in a charming inn or historic bed-and-breakfast. Kent County is home to a great variety of accommodations where guests will find their perfect fit.

No matter what type of experience you're seeking, Kent County will exceed your expectations. Learn more about this remarkable destination in the pages of this Visitor Guide. You'll find additional information and updates on our website, kentcounty.com/visitors.

Visit our HISTORIC TOWNS

Chestertown dates from 1706, growing as a thriving mid-Atlantic port of entry for Colonial movement into Maryland. A prosperous shipbuilding and trading center on the Chester River, Chestertown also became a locus for government. In fact, Kent County's court records are the oldest in the State, dating back to the 1640s. With roots this deep, it's not surprising that the town has the second largest collection of 18th- and 19th-century structures in the state of Maryland, which makes a stroll downtown a walk through the architectural past. Listed as a National Historic Landmark in 1970, the town's Historic District is also designated as an Arts & Entertainment District.

Rock Hall, also known as the Pearl of the Chesapeake, sits along the Chesapeake Bay and is home base for watermen who harvest oysters and clams in the winter, and crabs and fish in the summer. With plenty of marinas to choose from, Rock Hall easily claims the distinction of being the recreational boating center of the Upper Eastern Shore. Besides boasting the best sunsets in the county and the stunning Eastern

Galena, founded in 1763, is a charming village nestled on the banks of the upper reaches of the bucolic Sassafras River, which delineates Kent County's northern border. The town got its name from the silver that was mined nearby and local lore alleges that community leaders closed the mine to keep it from being captured by the British during the War of 1812. Today the town still shines with warm hospitality and Neck National Wildlife Refuge nearby, Rock Hall is your instant access point to the Chesapeake Bay. Licensed captains are waiting to take you out in search of trophy-sized rockfish and other choice game fish, or if sailing is your desire, charter boats await.

country charm. Visitors enjoy all-you-can-eat firehouse breakfasts and suppers, antiques and gift shops, locally-owned restaurants, and one of the best local markets on the upper Shore.

Millington is the perfect destination for a day trip, or travel stop where you can stretch your legs and have a delicious bite to eat. Located at the northern tip of the Chester River, just off route 301, it's an ideal spot for kayakers and anglers too.

Betterton, once a booming steamboat resort community, has become a peaceful haven with a quiet sense of yesteryear. Twelve miles northwest of Chestertown, the scenic town, also known as the Jewel of the Chesapeake, sits perched on bluffs overlooking the mouth of the Sassafras River and the upper Chesapeake. Betterton Beach is ideal for swimming and family picnics, while quiet coves, tucked along the peninsula, offer excellent opportunities for fishing, canoeing, and kayaking. Best of all, Betterton's waters are in the less salty, upper reaches of the Chesapeake Bay, so there aren't any pesky sea nettles.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Kent County,
 where creativity thrives

Over the years, many remarkable artists have found their muse in Kent County. You will discover a variety of their exquisite works—ranging from paint and pastel, wood and clay to glass and metal, fiber and photography—in galleries and studios throughout the county (listed opposite). In addition, visitors can enjoy community poetry readings, theater productions, musical events, and festivals celebrating our maritime heritage and American history.

In 2015, Chestertown, designated as an Arts and Entertainment District, put the official imprimatur on the thriving local arts scene. Every First Friday of the month, year-round, Chestertown galleries and shops keep their doors open, offering visitors libations, music, art, and yet another reason to meander the brick sidewalks of this eminently beautiful town. From June through August, Chestertown's Summer Concert series provides evenings of musical entertainment in Fountain Park.

Venues like The Mainstay in Rock Hall and the Garfield Center for the Arts in Chestertown provide a source of music, community theater, and performance arts, while the National Music Festival each summer brings gifted young musicians to work with world-class mentors in an array of performances. Washington College offers year-round lectures, musical and theater performances, as well as visiting writers and speakers of national and international renown.

TYING THE KNOT

The perfect setting to begin your life together

Weddings are as unique as the couples planning them. And Kent County offers unlimited possibilities for a spectacular setting to celebrate your special event. An array of activities, lodging, and dining options await the wedding party, family and friends. Want to get married on the water, beside the water, or even on the water? Want to say “I do” as a stunning summer sun melts into the horizon over the Chesapeake Bay, or beneath the sheltering branches of old-growth oak and maple trees glowing orange and gold on an autumn afternoon? Do you envision dancing the night away beneath the stars of the sweeping Eastern Shore sky, or under antique chandeliers in a historic estate?

One of the distinctive features of a Kent County wedding is the natural blend of the rustic and rural with the elegant and sophisticated. Your wedding photos can reflect the grace and memory of a historic home’s red-brick walls and wrought-iron gates, or the pastoral simplicity of a dignified old barn amid acres of sunflowers or lavender. Get married on a boat, in a church, in a field, in a garden, on the beach, or out on a dock surrounded by sailboats and yachts—the choices are fantastic and fun.

While awaiting the nuptials, your family and friends can choose from the multitude of activities available throughout the county, from charter fishing to trap and skeet shooting or waterfowl hunting, from a day-sail on the Chesapeake to an evening cruise on the Chester River, from a relaxing and rejuvenating visit to a spa or salon to a tour of local history through the many museums, historic buildings and sites. For those craving more action, there’s water-skiing, kayaking, or swimming at a beach, while others may choose to tour art galleries or quietly stroll the secluded paths of one of the county’s nature preserves.

At the end of the day, lodging can be as intimate as a country bed-and-breakfast or as unique as a historic inn. Because Kent County is so small, your guests will be able to cover a lot of ground in their explorations while not missing one moment of your special day.
